

SOCIAL CHATTER AND HOME TALK

Burdette's Are Coming.

Unless their plans changed within the past few days, Dr. and Mrs. Robert J. Burdette of Pasadena left California yesterday on the Korean, bound for a four months' stay in Honolulu before continuing their journey around the world. Their only servant is Mrs. Burdette's maid who will accompany them on around. Honolulu friends have been commissioned to secure them a furnished house and servants, and if a house can be found they will enjoy the freedom and rest of home life while here.

Since his long illness resulting from a fall, Dr. Burdette has found it necessary to resign as pastor of the Temple Baptist Church in Los Angeles and is now Pastor Emeritus of the church. Dr. Burdette says he has had time for in the past, and will continue his lecturing which has always been in such great demand. Both Dr. and Mrs. Burdette are very busy people at home, and the demands of philanthropic, religious and social life made upon them are very great.

"Sunnycrest," their palatial Pasadena home, which crowns a hill from which a beautiful park slopes down to the boulevard, is the center of much delightful hospitality and has an atmosphere quite its own. Tuesday is Sunnycrest reception day, but on the first Tuesday evening of every month Mrs. Burdette holds a monthly salon which is always notable for the number of clever and interesting people who are entertained. Each month about fifty or sixty friends, all prominent in the realm of science, religion, medicine or the artistic professions, know without being especially invited that their presence is expected at Sunnycrest, for the litching always hangs out for those who have once been bidden to these salons. Each time some one presents a paper or speaks informally upon some question of the day—it may be some philanthropy, some new discovery in the medical world, a new book or a political question—and later a discussion follows which is general. There is always some good music, and later over the coffee cups the guests bid one another good-night. Most of the noted writers, artists and men of letters who visit Southern California during the winter are guests at one of these salons, and the Burdettes "Tuesday night friends," as they term the fortunate coterie, always regret the coming of summer or of a mid-winter flitting which brings an end to these monthly events.

Both Dr. and Mrs. Burdette have traveled extensively, and one year made an extensive trip through the Holy Land. Like every woman who travels much, Mrs. Burdette has a fan, and it is true. She has several hundred bells from every part of the world—old camel bells from Damascus, monastery bells that called to prayer many centuries ago, big bells and little bells, bells of most intricate and wonderful workmanship from every nook and corner of the world, and each new trip adds more bells to the fascinating collection, which occupies the broad lower landing at Sunnycrest and is admired by all the visitors to this beautiful home.

Both Dr. and Mrs. Burdette do considerable literary work, and Mrs. Burdette last year published a book, "The Rainbow and the Pot of Gold," which is a detailed story of the building of the Temple Baptist church in Los Angeles. Among Dr. Burdette's best-known books are his "Smiles Yoked With Sighs" and "Chimes From a Jester's Bells," both of which have had a wide sale. He does considerable magazine and newspaper work as well when he finds time for the occupation which he loves. Dr. Burdette is noted for his genial big-heartedness and his wonderful understanding of human nature, as much as he is for his clever wit, and he is ever leading the helping hand somewhere. Everything which interests humanity interests him. In addition to his writing, preaching and lecturing, he has been one of the city commissioners of Pasadena till his health demanded his resignation, and his interest in municipal affairs has greatly stimulated the interest of others.

Mrs. Burdette's son, Roy Wheeler, spent several weeks in Honolulu last winter, but this is the first visit Dr. and Mrs. Burdette have made here or to the Orient, and Honolulu people are indeed fortunate to have these two interesting people in their midst, even for a few months.

The Promotion Committee are busy themselves over the forms of greeting which will be extended to the large number of excursionists, on the steamer Cleveland. The plan is for a committee of young girls to meet them with a lei for each passenger. The tug which will convey the party seat to meet them, decked in all her "glad rags"—the Hawaiian band playing its most fetching music. Why these strangers will think this is paradise, set in mid ocean and imbued them with a strong desire, to come again and stay longer.

United States Senator George C. Perkins sustained a serious accident, by falling upon an ice coated pavement, an injury to the spine, makes the fall more serious, and grave fears are felt over his condition. Mr. Perkins and his family are well known in Honolulu and have many friends, who trust that the account has been exaggerated, and favorable news will be received of the ultimate recovery of this popular Senator.

Mr. John Waterhouse was a returning passenger on the Mauna Loa January the sixth, from Kahului.

Mr. James Kennedy returned on the Mauna Loa from a trip to one of the other islands, January the sixth.

Mrs. E. S. Cunha was a passenger on the Siberia, for California, which is on account of poor health, as Mrs. Cunha has not been in the full enjoyment of good health for some time.

Mr. W. H. Babbitt, who recently resigned the position of Superintendent of Public Instruction, for a more lucrative one, will leave on the steamer Kure, which sails from here January fourteenth for the mainland. Mr. Babbitt's mission is to bring Porto Ricans as laborers for the sugar plantations.

T. H. Petrie, Secretary of Castle & Cooke will probably be an incoming passenger on the Matson Steamship Lurline, which leaves San Francisco, January fifth.

Mr. John Q. Wood, a former resident of Honolulu, and valued instructor of Oahu College and very popular among the literati of Honolulu, left Honolulu several years ago, entered Harvard University, where he took up the study of law, and on January fifth, was appointed by President Taft as United States Consul to Venice, a position Mr. Wood will fill with dignity and be a credit to the country he represents.

The Order of Elks are making preparations to celebrate Washington's birthday, February the twenty-second, in a manner that will reflect glory upon the members of this Order, and give conclusive evidence, that what ever is attempted by them, is carried out, nothing will be spared—labor, money or energy. The liberality of this lodge is so well known that the community can be prepared for something unsurpassed in former years.

Judge Sanford Ballard Dole was on January fourth sworn in for his second term as United States Judge of the District of Hawaii. The commission signed by President Taft was read in open court, and the oath of office administered by Chief Justice Hartwell of the Supreme Court. It was an impressive scene, but as Judge Dole has held so many high offices—the gifts of the people of this territory, he is quite accustomed to the elevation of high office.

No more melody can be found, than that which comes from Dixie. A song that has endeared itself to all patriotic Americans, and considered now, the most popular of patriotic airs, and has been officially proclaimed as such. A fact that is not at all surprising. Just observe at a band concert, which piece of music receives the greater amount of applause, and you will find that Dixie is the one air that is repeatedly called for a repetition. Can any one feel surprise at this?

When one reads of typhoons and other things not quite conducive to a safe and pleasant trip such as Mr. H. P. Wood, Mrs. Wood and Miss Helen Wilder experienced in the China Sea, a feeling of security comes over us, that we are free from all such misadventures, escape, injury, and in seeing other sights, this unpleasant experience will be forgotten, and a safe and pleasant trip will be theirs.

Honors seem to be heaped thick and fast upon our young townsman, Lathrop Withington Jr. who was unanimously elected Captain of the Harvard Varsity football team for the season of nineteen hundred and ten. But a short time ago, he was elected president of his class—running on an independent ticket, and polled more than twice the number of votes, as his nearest competitor. He is an accomplished carman, and seems to have the "head of the class" in everything pertaining to athletic sports; his brother Paul is also one who is making his mark. These young collegians are social favorites in Honolulu, as well as in their college town. Graduated from Oahu College and are the sons of D. L. Withington, the attorney.

General Barry's aid, Captain Ferguson, A. C. and Colonel Finley his Chief of Staff, have been the guests of Fort Shafter Officers, and have been the recipients of much attention.

Mr. and Mrs. Fowler of Palo Alto, Cal., having been spending their honeymoon in the islands. This charming couple, who have been domiciled at the Moana, left for California on the Siberia.

Mr. Hume Ford was a returning passenger on the Alameda yesterday, and was met at the steamer by a contingent of friends, who were delighted to see him, and gave him a royal welcome—this popular man was covered with leis. Mr. Ford is preceding the Clarke's tour around the world in order to arrange a Regatta to be given at Waikiki, by the Outrigger Club. This entertainment will be given in honor of the passengers on the Cleveland, which will arrive in Honolulu the twenty-second of this month. The Regatta will be on a gigantic scale, Mr. Clarke has sent sixty dollars for cups as prizes. There will be canoe races, surf boarding, swimming races in fact all sorts of aquatic sports will be indulged in which will be extremely interesting to the numerous visitors, especially as a number of Hawaiians will participate in these events.

Baroness Vaughan, King's Favorite

Leopold II, king of the Belgians, probably was the target of more criticism and gossip than any other royal figure of modern times. His morals and manners better fitted the times of the ancients than the present day, and at his death he was ostracized from all his nearest kin. His wife led an unhappy life and his three daughters turned against him largely because of his relations with the Baroness Vaughan, which kept the rumors of gossip wagging for years. The Baroness is a French woman named Caroline Lacroix and was the daughter of an innkeeper. Leopold is said to have married hermorganatically, and the fact that she was at his bedside up to the very moment of his death led to the belief that the marriage was regular. Some years ago he bought a chateau for her on the Riviera, providing it as a refuge for her at his death.

Schaefer-Waldron Wedding.

At high noon Tuesday Miss Elsie Schaefer became the bride of Mr. J. W. Waldron. The Episcopal ceremony was performed by Canon Simpson. The church, owing to the beautiful interior, was not elaborately decorated. The litany rail was banked with maidenhair and roses and the chancel was decorated with choice palms and maidenhair fern. Promptly at 12 o'clock the wedding march was played and the ushers, Mr. Gustav Schaefer, Mr. Fred Schaefer, Jr., Mr. Frank Armstrong and Mr. R. Farsey, followed by the four dainty flower girls, Miss Eva Focke, Miss Althea Dowsett, Miss Dorothy Waldron and Miss Habs Focke, dressed in white Swiss dresses with blue silk sashes, preceded the maid of honor and the bride up the center aisle. At the litany rail the ushers and flower girls segregated, thus forming a passageway for the maid of honor, Miss Pauline Schaefer, and the bride. The bride looked superb. Her gown was elegant in its simplicity of Paris mousseline on train. The frock was made entirely by hand; the skirt was paneled with hand-tucking finished with Clung lace and Valenciennes lace. At the bottom of this robe was gathered valours of Swiss lace. A wedding veil, caught with real orange blossoms, gave the finishing touch to the costume. The maid of honor, Miss Pauline Schaefer, was clad in a white silk mulle over blue, embellished with lace. A large picture hat was worn with this creation. Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party motored to Rosebank, the home of the bride, where a delicious wedding breakfast was served. This breakfast was small only twenty-four guests being invited. The guests were seated at a large circular table, which was decorated exquisitely in American Beauty roses. Mrs. Schaefer, the mother of the bride, was clad in a French creation of Brussels tulle, in tunic princess shape, embellished with green embroidery and lace motifs. The corsage was arranged with a flechu effect over a plastron of antique gold lace. The bride received many costly gifts, the groom's gift being an exquisite diamond pendant. In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Waldron drove to Mt. Tantalo, to the W. R. Castle's place, where the honeymoon is being spent. After January 18th this young couple will be domiciled at the Moana hotel.

The wedding of Miss Alice Hede-mann and Mr. Harold Castle will not take place February 1st, on account of the bride's parents being suddenly called to the mainland.

T. Clive Davies left on the Mauna Kea for the island of Hawaii, January the fourth.

A great deal of interest is felt in the preparation for the great Floral Parade on February the twenty-second, which it is said will eclipse any former pageant held in Honolulu. Under the able directorship of Harold Dillingham and his aids—men of ability and unexceptionable taste, this cannot fail to be one of the most brilliant events in the annals of Hawaiian history and a fitting tribute to the one whose birthday should be celebrated by every loyal American.

Colonel Biddle, Engineer Corps, Chief of Engineers of the Department of California, returned, January the fifth on the United States Lighthouse Tender Kukui. Major Winslow, Engineer Corps, in charge of local Army work, accompanied Colonel Biddle to Hilo, where they went to inspect the Hilo breakwater. The efficiency of these officers is well known and their genial manners, have made them most acceptable to the ones who were fortunate in meeting them.

Reverend and Mrs. Henry Judd have returned from a visit to relatives on Molokai, and are now ready to receive their friends at their new residence at nine hundred and nineteen, Prospect street.

Miss Vera Damon returned from Kauai on the steamer Kinau Saturday, January first.

Miss H. A. Alexander left for a visit in Maui on Friday, January seventh. She will return to Honolulu about the twentieth.

Judge Ballou was a passenger for Hilo on the steamer Mauna Kea, sailing Tuesday January fourth.

BULLETIN AD PAY

The plans for the Floral Parade, Honolulu's most beautiful festival, are now under way, and it is expected that the number of decorated automobiles in line will be twice that of last year. Everyone seems filled with enthusiasm, and the early start made by Mr. Harold Dillingham, the general director of the day, seems bound to bring good results. The local society people are planning their cars already, and some extremely dainty but intricate designs are now under way. Some of the local people who were in San Francisco at the time of the Portola festival returned with ideas gathered from that source, which will be novel and give a touch of variety to the program.

In the evening the society folk who have not been tired to death by their exertion in the parade, and throughout the afternoon performances, will all take in the Elks' carnival on Bishop street, opposite the Young Hotel, and then wind up the day's fun at the masque ball on the roof garden. In these two places the God of Fun will reign and his many devotees will have plenty to do bringing others to worship at his feet. It is expected that the Hawaiian band and the famous band from the Fifth Cavalry will both be on hand during the evening to assist in the joy of the general affairs with their strains of music. With the many plans which have been made, it seems certain that Honolulu will have one of the greatest days of beauty, pleasure and fun in its history.

Mr. Lymer and Mr. Larson two Harvard graduates and Mr. James Page are living with the Frank Hustaces at Waikiki.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit P. Wilder were passengers on the Tenyo Maru, leaving for an indefinite voyage which will take them to many parts of the world, which they left out in a former itinerary. Before their departure, many dinners, luncheons and suppers were given. Many a godspeed is sent them on their long journey.

Governor Frear returned on the Tenyo Maru, January the third from a visit to Washington, D. C. and other Eastern cities. Governor and Mrs. Frear will resume the holding of their pleasant receptions, which were suspended during the absence of the Chief Executive.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

THIS TRADE MARK SIGNIFIES PURITY—EXCELLENCE—HEALTH.

Medicine for all Mankind

Mr. Horace R. Butts, Providence, R. I., a U. S. Army man, many years ago on account of the hardships of army life had dyspepsia and stomach trouble so bad that he could scarcely eat. He took Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, which gave him immediate relief. He recommends it as an invigorating stimulant and body-builder.

"I have used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for many years and find that it is all that it claims to be. During my twenty-four years of service in the U. S. Army I was being constantly transferred from place to place. As a result of changing climate and water, my stomach and digestion failed me completely, so I was scarcely able to eat a thing. On the advice of a friend I purchased a bottle of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and immediately good results followed. This was eighteen years ago. Since then I have not been without it. I recommend it to all who are in need of an invigorating stimulant and desirous of building up the system."

CAUTION.—When you ask for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. It's the only absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey and is sold in sealed bottles only; never in bulk. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist," on the label, and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y., U. S. A.
